While I would like to code something like this Column A Column B 123456 ABCDEFGHIJK 123456 ABCDEFGHIJK 123456 ABCDEFGHIJK 123456 ABCDEFGHIJK 123456 ABCDEFGHIJK I am not sure if the second or third, the output I expect here is A has 2 cell values, B has 2 values etc. Is it possible to do this using conditional formulas? Thanks in advance A: you can create a cumulative sum, and then pivot the data: =SUMIF(A1:A9,"123456",B1:B9) will give you the first cell of ABCDEFGHIJK for every 123456. you can use conditional formatting to set B1:B9 green if the above formula is >1 or red if it's 0. this won't show you all combinations of consecutive numbers, but it will reduce your data nicely. you can easily extend the formula to include more numbers if needed. The Birth of a Nation Blog The Birth of a Nation Movie Review The Birth of a Nation tells the true story of Nat Turner, a young slave who leads a slave revolt in Southampton County, Virginia, on August 21, 1831. The movie takes a modern, reactive view of the events. It shows Nat Turner as a man driven by a holy mission to free black people enslaved in the South. The African-American characters in the movie are sympathetic, but there are some obvious plot contrivances. The screenplay by Nate Moore and DuVernay relies heavily on horror movie clichés. The film was co-written and directed by the 22-year-old African-American DuVernay. Overall, the film is compelling as historical drama, though history buffs might want
